ClinicalKey Design Changes

In April 2017, ClinicalKey introduced design and functionality changes to streamline navigation and make it easier than ever to find relevant content. Changes to the home page, all other pages, and the upper-right corner are described below.

Home Page

Access Information Quickly and Easily

1. More Prominent Browse: Browse by Content Type

The Browse feature allows you to click on a specific content type and browse the available content. For example, click on Books to review the available Book titles in ClinicalKey.

For ClinicalKey users who also subscribe to Clinical Pharmacology powered by ClinicalKey, a Tools menu displays on the home page for quick access to Reports and other drug-related Tools.

2. New Sections: News and Updates, Other Resources

These new sections have been added to ClinicalKey (Global and Australia versions only) so that you may view content and news updates or access other resources, such as the Training Calendar, product demonstrations, and Trending Topics.

3. New Links: Saved Searches, Search History

Links to these features previously were in the User Menu only. Now they are displayed on the home page as well as in the Search bar on other pages.

All Other Pages

Toggle Quickly Between Search & Browse

1. Top of Page: Choose Search or Browse

- The current view (either Search or Browse) is underlined. The bar below the links displays corresponding options.

- What's the difference between Search and Browse?

  - Search a Specific Concept

    Enter keyword or phrase to search across multiple content types for information on a specific concept (condition, treatment, drug, etc.).

  - Browse a Content Type

    Click on a specific content type to browse the available content. For example, select Books to review the available Book titles in ClinicalKey.

2. Search: Click Search, Enter Concept in Search Field Below

Saved Searches and Search History links are on the right side of the Search bar.

3. Browse: Click Browse, Select Content Type

This example shows the Browse Books option. Click any other content type in the horizontal bar (Journals, Guidelines, etc.) to browse content in that area.
Upper-Right Corner
